

Speaker 1: Pepsi.

Barry M. Kowali...: So actually Diet Coke. So, you get old and you can't have the regular Coke anymore. But yeah, I'm a Coke guy, not a Pepsi guy.

Neither one. I don't like drinking either one. I stay away from both.

Puppies by far. Not a cat guy. Kittens are cool, but they grow up to cats.

Definitely phone call. My daughter texts me and I can't text fast enough back to her. I call her and she's like, "Dad, why are you calling me?"

Cardio. Definitely get on the treadmill and start walking, watching UK sports. That's kind of the thing I like to do.

Oh, that's a tough one. How about both? I love them both, but I probably have pancakes more often than waffles.

iPhone.

That's another tough one. See, I like them both. Cakes probably takes the choice, I guess.

Both. That's why I do the outside work. I work in the yard. But probably do the dishes because I mess up the laundry too often.

Hamburgers, definitely.

I drive a truck.

Amusement park, definitely. I'm not a beach guy, but catch me in Disney World a lot.

Popcorn. Love the butter and the salt.

Oh, definitely TV. Book will put me to sleep. I do too much magazine reading on journals and stuff. I try to avoid them. When I'm having a pleasure of reading, I don't want to read more journals.

Mountains. Again, not a beach guy. The ocean's great for fishing, but I'd much rather be hiking in a mountain than sitting on a beach.

Country, definitely, for the same reasons. Don't want to be in with all the big crowds and such.

Definitely summer. Not liking winter at all.

Well, I would prefer a fan, but the boss, my wife says no fan. So there is no fan in our house.

This transcript was exported on Feb 03, 2022 - view latest version here.

Probably pirates, but that's kind of younger stuff. Ninjas weren't around when I was young.